How to play

Before the game starts, players choose their win condition by choosing a Hidden Tile and placing it facedown on the board as shown in the setup.

Objective

Complete your secret objective or discover the opponent's secret objective.

Taking a turn

Starting with the Host, players can either move a tile or deploy a new tile.

Capturing

To capture, move or deploy one of your tiles onto a tile it is allowed to capture. If it is a Basic Tile, it is removed from the game.

Movement

Tiles are played in the spaces and can move to adjacent empty spaces up to their max movement.

Basic Tiles

Lilac x10
Move: 3
Capture:

Zinnia x8
Move: 4
Capture:

Foxglove x5
Move: 5
Capture:

Tip! Basic Tiles capture non-identical Basic Tiles.

Winning

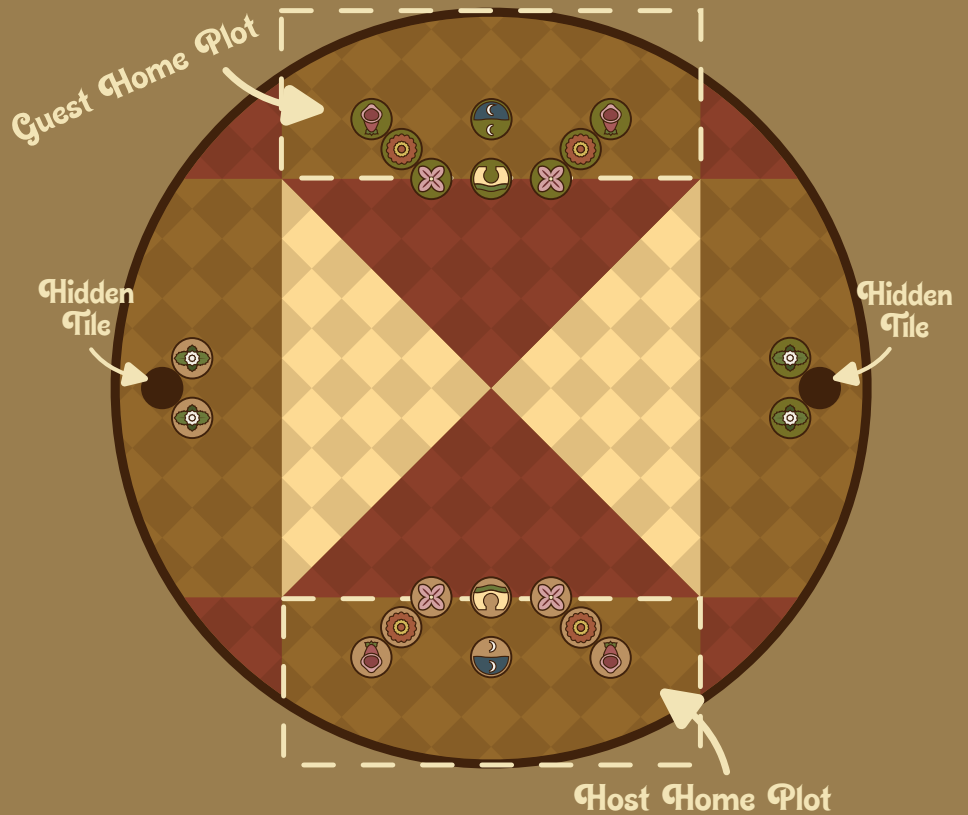

To win, players must complete their objective or capture their opponent's Hidden Tile.

When you attempt to capture a Hidden Tile, first declare that you are doing so. Your opponent then states whether that Second Face tile is able to capture their Hidden Tile. If it can, you win! If it can't, remove the Second Face tile from the game and regrow the Vanguard tiles surrounding that Hidden Tile.

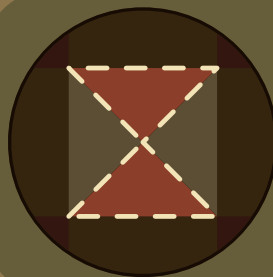

A Draw occurs when all players are unable to complete any of their win conditions.

Setting up the board

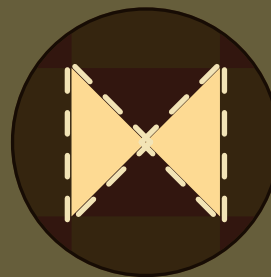

Players set up the board as shown with their Hidden Tiles facedown.

The board

Red Plots
Limit: 2

White Plots
Limit: 3

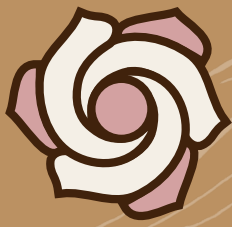

Open Plots
Limit: none

Each Plot has a limit to the number of Basic Tiles they can contain per person.

If a Basic Tile is in two Plots at once, it's counted as half in one, half in the other.

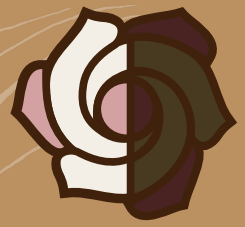

Special Tiles don't count towards the Plot limits.

A Basic Tile only counts towards the limits if it ends its movement inside of a Plot. This means that Basic Tiles can travel through full Plots as long as they don't end their movement inside of them.

Special Tiles

Special tiles are returned to their owner's hand when captured.

Gate x2

Can be placed adjacent to a Basic Tile you own.

New tiles may only be deployed adjacent to your Gate.

The Gate that starts on the board is called your Home Gate, the one in your hand is your Away Gate.

Vanguard x2

Both must be captured in order for the Hidden Tile to be captured.

They regrow if:

- the attacking Second Face attempts to capture the Hidden Tile and fails.
- you capture the opponent's Second Face tile.

Reflection x1

Move: 5
Capture:

Away Gate

When your reflection is captured, you must flip over your Hidden Tile.

Can only be deployed through your Home Gate.

Hidden Tiles

Iris

Have at least 2 Basic Tiles in each colored Plot.

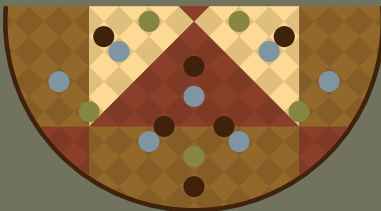

White Rose

Deploy your Away Gate touching your opponent's Home Plot.

Oriental Lily

Create one of the Garden patterns shown below using Basic Tiles.

Bird of Paradise

Have at least one Basic Tile in every Plot.

White Lotus

Create a closed ring of harmonies around the board center using Basic Tiles and diagonal line of sight. Basic Tiles harmonize with non-identical Basic Tiles.

Echeveria

Capture 2 of each Basic Tile type of your opponent and have 1 of each yours captured by the opponent.

Black Orchid

Have more or the same number of Basic Tiles in every non-Home Plot as your opponent, with at least half a tile in each of those Plots.

Second Face Tiles

If you figure out what Hidden Tile your opponent chose, you can deploy the corresponding Second Face tile to capture their Hidden Tile and win the game!

Move: 7
Capture:

You may only play two different Second Face tiles in a single game.

You may only have one Second Face tile in play at a time, but if you deploy another one while you already have one in play, the old one is returned to your hand.

If you reveal your opponent's Hidden Tile and you already have an incorrect Second Face tile on the board, remove that Second Face tile from the game.

Tip! A Second Face tile can only capture the Hidden Tile it looks like!
